Audrey Woulard

Audrey Woulard is an internationally known portrait photographer who is known for her portraits of young people. Her love for the art of photography began with the birth of her children. She left the corporate world very early in life, and embarked on a career in portrait photography.

Her long career has allowed her to be commissioned to shoot or teach her craft in places such as Australia, London, Amsterdam and Barcelona. Audrey has also photographed high profile commercial assignments such as Pottery Barn Kids and IAMS pet food. Her work has been featured in publications such as O Magazine, Instyle, People Magazine, US Weekly and Intouch magazine.

Her love of the people she photographs drives her passion, and her greatest achievement is capturing her client's memories year after year. She is a speaker for industry conferences such as WPPI and Imaging USA. She also holds her own private workshops called Light Exposed. Audrey is also dedicated to teaching photographers the art of photography on her education platform: AW Teaches.

Audrey resides in Chicago, IL with her husband and their four boys.

“ When I capture an image, I want to also capture their spirit. I want anyone viewing the images to equally see and feel their spirit as well. ”
