

FEBRUARY 28, 2020

Nikon | LEARN &
EXPLORE

BEGINNER

Using Shadows for Dimension in Photographs

A tip from Nikon Ambassador Joe McNally

“ If you want something to look interesting, don't light all of it. Shadows give your images dimension and mystery. Just light pieces of a scene instead of flatly lighting the entire scene to give an image dimension. ”

Check out Joe's Ambassador page.

To see more of Joe's photography, visit his website at www.joemcnally.com.